2021: A Reflection on Impact

We feel compelled to take a break from the standard opening letter you would typically see in this space—full of recaps and explanations—and instead share with you the best part about holding the positions with which we’ve been entrusted.

It’s not about titles or prestige. Nor is it the ability to call meetings to order or receive invitations to speak.

No—the best thing about our roles is the requisite to meet so many YMCA employees, volunteers, and members. Why? Because by doing so, we get to witness the personal resilience that is a common denominator among most of the people involved with our organization. Because by doing so, it becomes crystal clear that as a whole, we are doing the right thing. Because by doing so, we are introduced to many remarkable individuals who are laser-focused on personal and community improvement, as well as managers and supervisors who are equally focused on providing the most thoughtful, creative leadership you can imagine.

On one hand, a major part of our role is to try to inspire others so that the YMCA, as it has for 170 years, can continually have a positive impact region-wide. But on the other hand, we are often the ones who truly get inspired by others.

Due to the lingering pandemic, we may be reaching the point where phrases like ‘meeting challenges,’ ‘resetting goals,’ ‘managing expectations,’ ‘returning to normal,’ and others like them are starting to sound a bit timeworn. Cliché, almost. But it’s important to note that clichés become clichés because they are based on truth and get right to the heart of the matter. Which is why it doesn’t bother us to state categorically, in 2021, we did a remarkable job as an organization of doing just that: meeting our challenges, resetting our goals, and managing our expectations.

As far as returning to normal is concerned, if the progress we made is any indication, then maybe we can say that in all the most important ways, we’ve accomplished that, too. So many of our younger members have been able to dream smart with ongoing events like our girls’ chess club at the Downtown Y. Youth, and Leaders-in-Training continue to dream free at Camp Woodstock. Amateur athletes of all ages dream strong almost every day with countless sporting activities, like pickleball, which has proven to be popular with many Hale Y seniors.

We should all be proud of what we have accomplished, as well as what’s in store for the months ahead. No one doubts that the Y itself makes a difference in the lives of so many, but what we have come to learn over and over is how our work, collectively and individually, motivates and encourages members and colleagues alike. Our commitment inspires the best in people to “Belong to Something Greater.”

Ellos corren, juegan, saltan, nadan, reciben ayuda para hacer la tarea y comen alimentos nutritivos. Con el tiempo, a medida que adquieren conciencia de sí mismos, desarrollan la confianza que necesitan para alcanzar el éxito en la escuela y más allá.

Los jóvenes prosperan cuando los profesores y entrenadores celebran sus talentos singulares. En estas páginas, recibirá información sobre un joven que está construyendo el éxito en su propia vida. Cuando se unió a la iniciativa Bright Kids, Healthy Futures (Niños Brillantes, Futuros Saludables) en el YMCA Wilson-Gray, Denzel Dunn comenzó a superar las barreras a las que se enfrentó durante su crecimiento en el North End de Hartford. Hoy es estudiante de segundo año de la Universidad de Hartford, se está convirtiendo en un ciudadano más responsable y desarrollando una sólida capacidad de liderazgo.

El YMCA es vital para realizar actividad física y relacionarse socialmente. El año pasado, el YMCA impulsó una estrategia audaz para involucrar e inscribir a adultos mayores, una de las poblaciones de Connecticut que crece más rápidamente. Casi 2.000 adultos mayores se inscribieron en los programas del YMCA, una increíble cantidad de miembros nuevos que se suman a los adultos mayores que ya practican ejercicio, levantan pesas y nadan juntos.

El YMCA impulsa el crecimiento personal y construye una comunidad. Las personas que se suman al YMCA para bajar de peso o estar en forma se sorprenden haciendo amistades de por vida, pero eso es exactamente lo que ocurre. El YMCA aleja la soledad promoviendo la salud y actividades divertidas. Las investigaciones demuestran que las personas que hacen ejercicio tienen posibilidades considerablemente menores de sentirse solas.

Durante nuestras vidas, solo tenemos tiempo limitado para aprovechar todas las oportunidades que se nos presentan. Desde el preescolar hasta la madurez, las experiencias que tenemos en el YMCA forman a la persona en la que nos convertimos. Hoy, desafiamos a jóvenes y adultos a crear una vida plena para sí mismos y a compartir el éxito ofreciendo algo a nuestra comunidad en compensación. Gracias por ayudarnos a construir el éxito de por vida. Por favor, súpese a nosotros durante otro gran año.

Este Informe Anual trata las formas en que el YMCA mejora la vida a cualquier edad. Desde el día en que un niño se anima a nadar en la parte honda de la piscina hasta el momento en que un adulto mayor toma su primera clase de Zumba, el YMCA es testigo de su coraje. Sabemos que nuestros valores de consideración, honestidad, respeto y responsabilidad inspiran a las personas a alcanzar el éxito. Esas creencias sostienen a los miembros del YMCA durante toda la vida.

Este informe destaca a varios benefactores del YMCA que donan su tiempo, talento y tesoro al YMCA para ayudar a otros a construir el éxito de por vida. Apreciamos los esfuerzos de esos respetados miembros de nuestra comunidad, quienes han obrado como valiosos administradores de nuestros recursos. Como antiguos miembros del YMCA, nos muestran cómo crear un mundo mejor para la próxima generación.

Cuando los niños viven el éxito en un programa de alfabetización temprana, construyen cimientos sólidos para aprendizajes futuros. Los programas extracurriculares brindan una oportunidad de brillar a los niños que quizás no se adaptan bien a un entorno académico estructurado. Asimismo, los programas del YMCA crean un espacio para que los niños sean felices.

A girls' club devoted to complex tactics!

It's not a gambit, but an exercise in fun and intellectual stimulation.

The Downtown Y's girls' chess club engages young minds in inspiring ways.

The club meets Saturday morning, with volunteers from Travelers providing guidance.

The girls are eager to learn—and they certainly don't keep that goal in check.

Myah concentrates, Asia makes a move, and coach Roger keeps watch. It's an exciting mixture of confidence, hope, and discovery.

Camp Woodstock is music to the ears of many boys and girls.

After all, quite a few attend to find the peace and optimism that is not always in abundance the rest of the year.

But it is in full supply during Woodstock summers!

The campers, counselors, and Leaders-in-Training eagerly report how friendship, listening to one another, and tapping into everyone's strengths and kindness works wonders.

For Kevin (far-left), a Leader-in-Training, the compassionate people and rustic atmosphere at camp led to contentment simply by providing a window into his own true self.

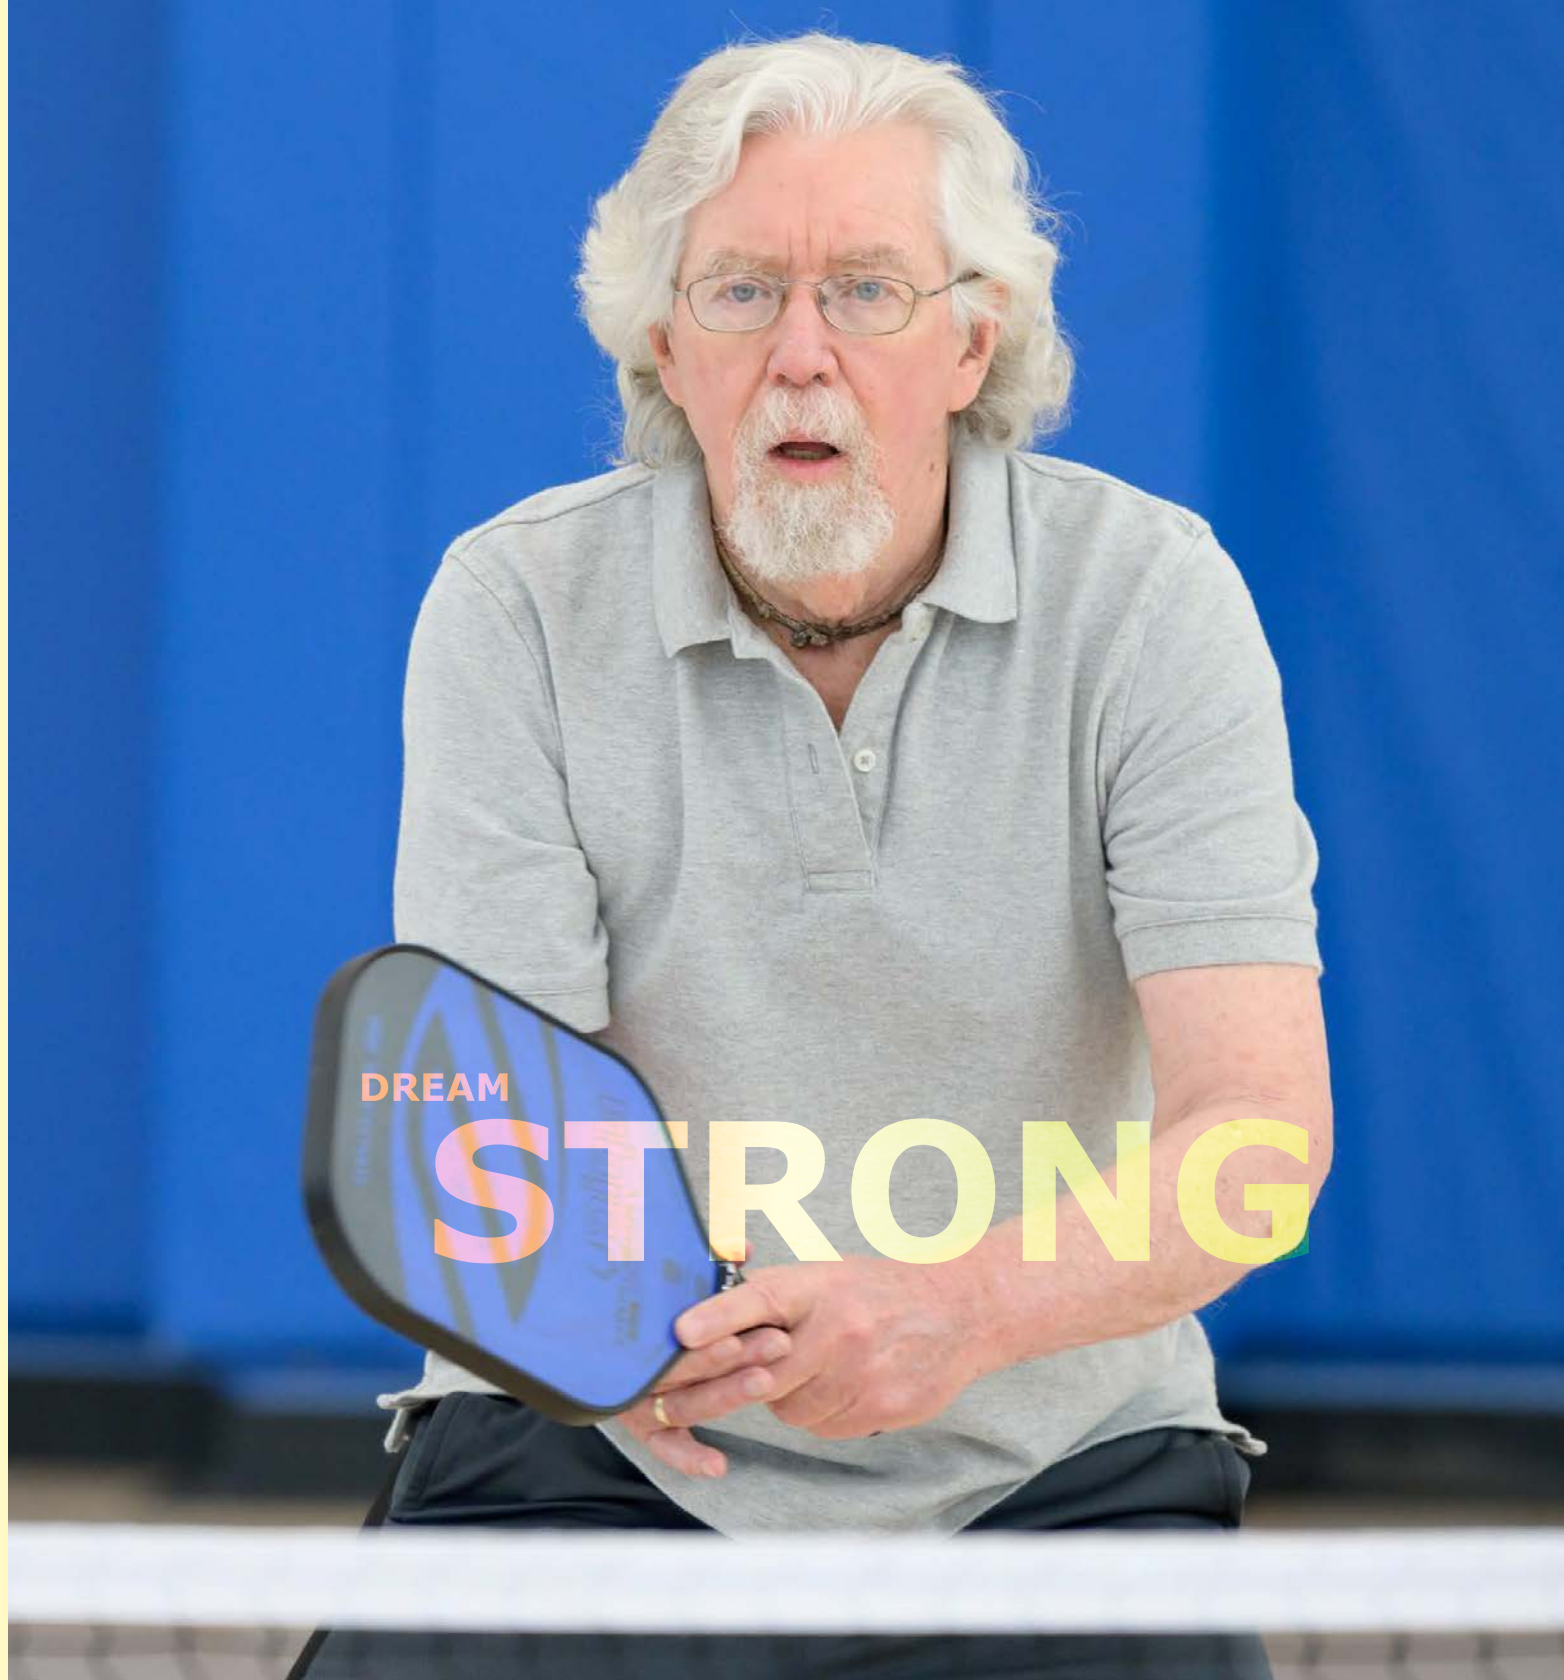

Pickleball. A barrel of fun for seniors—and fun-seekers of all ages.

Many players at our Hale Y branch say that when friends hear about pickleball for the first time, they chuckle over the name.

But the joke's on them, because it provides more enjoyment, exercise, and camaraderie than many other games.

Then again, so do all other activities at the Y, from weightlifting to dodgeball to a dozen more in between, for people of all ages and skill levels.

Just look at all those expressions: deep concentration, rowdy laughter, you name it!

YMCA Executive Directors work hard to inspire others, but often they are the ones who get inspired.

But many remember when, why, and how they were the ones who got inspired:

"I attended an event designed to provide professional staff of color the opportunity to become more engaged in the Y. I felt connected to something bigger than myself."

"When a volunteer shared a story of a donor who provided a camp scholarship for her struggling son, it brought tears to everyone's eyes."

"After every day's work, I know that I have helped change someone's life for the better."

"Our mission is what has always motivated me to do more."

"The impact of COVID on our camp community merely highlighted for me the importance of the camper experience."

"At my first staff meeting, I heard employees telling awe-inspiring stories about the Y members they work with. It was so motivating."

"Not a day goes by when someone doesn't share an inspirational story about the positive impact the Y has on them and their families."

"The kids and staff at camp have given me endless energy to work six days a week every summer."

Robert C. Knox, Jr.

YMCA Distinguished Leadership Award Recipient

EDWARD F. BADER

“There was never a dull moment,” says Edward F. Bader, recipient of this year’s Robert C. Knox, Jr. YMCA Distinguished Leadership Award.

Ed was discussing his active life and notable career, and considering his sizable list of accomplishments and the motivations that inspire them, it’s clear that his brief self-description is not an exaggeration.

That certainly makes sense, for Ed’s career has revolved around serious financial endeavors for which precision, scrupulousness, and integrity are vital.

Ed is a financial expert whose skilled and diligent work on behalf of the YMCA’s fundraising, auditing, budgeting, and sustaining programs and campaigns comprise one component that led to this year’s Robert C. Knox, Jr. YMCA Distinguished Leadership Award honor. The other component concerns his passion to get things done—and to get them done in the most effective ways possible.

“The executive leaders and all the branch directors are always under tremendous pressure not just to break even year after year, but to be fiscally fit year-round,” Ed says, highlighting why financial stability is so important to the success of the Y. It isn’t always an easy chore, but Ed’s career-long experience with accounting, regulations, audits and other key financial competencies has benefitted the YMCA of Greater Hartford in countless ways over the years. As Ed likes to say, he’s relatively opinionated and strong-willed—which is exactly what many of the organization’s goals and challenges have required. In fact, that’s precisely why leadership at the Y has asked him on numerous occasions to head various committees and initiatives. He had also been on the Board of Directors and to this day remains a Trustee.

Ed first became a member of the YMCA in 1968 while working for the accounting firm Arthur Andersen LLC. The company had a corporate culture that encouraged employees to serve their communities by working with not-for-profits and other community-based organizations. Ed’s fundraising and financial guidance for the YMCA began almost immediately thereafter.

Growing up in Hartford, Ed was an only child—until his parents had three more children when he was a teenager. Since his parents worked so hard—his father at Pratt & Whitney and his mother as a nurse—he found himself helping out with many parenting chores when most of his friends were outside playing. Those responsibilities sparked his devotion to such essentials as the need for afterschool programs, emotional support, physical fitness, socialization, and many other matters for which so many families depend on the Y.

Ed studied economics at Fairfield University, then spent time in the Connecticut Army National Guard with the Signal Corps. After active duty, he rejoined the National Guard, completed officer training, and rejoined his unit as a company commander of a medical unit within the 118th Medical Battalion in New Haven, while concurrently expanding his financial career. He ultimately spent almost 40 years with Arthur Andersen LLC and has been lauded for his extensive list of proficiencies, which includes a broad range of expertise in accounting and life, health, and property-casualty insurance matters. He has also been an ‘expert witness’ in litigation affairs, an arbiter, has made distinguished presentations for a host of industry groups, and is a diplomat of the American Board of Forensic Accounting, among many other posts and memberships.

He is very proud of all his Y activities, particularly his role launching the creation of an audit committee to assure that reputational safeguards are in place, and his key involvement initiating the establishment of the Wilson-Gray YMCA Youth and Family Center.

“I’m gratified with anything I can do that serves the community,” Ed says. That’s a reflection, too, of his sense of gratitude with regard to his beloved family—his wife Nancy and their four children, including two sons they adopted from Lithuania almost 25 years ago.

Ed’s work has been by turns productive, challenging, demanding, and ultimately very fulfilling. “After all,” he declares, “I wouldn’t have spent 54 years doing it if I didn’t enjoy it.”

Major Gifts

Our major donors make a large personal investment in the Y's cause-drive programs, services, and projects that deliver positive outcomes and build lifelong success. We are deeply grateful for their demonstrated regard to helping people achieve their fullest potential.

"Through the Gawlicki Family Foundation's philanthropic investments, our hope is that children in Hartford will get a better education with exposure to leadership development and internship opportunities. Systemically, we envision a Hartford where youth pursue post-secondary educational opportunities only to return to the city to perpetuate a cycle of success."

The Heritage Club

The Y's planned giving society, The Heritage Club, was established to honor individuals who have made a planned gift to benefit the Y and its 12 branches and camps. Such gifts follow one's life and might include an estate gift, bequest of life insurance, IRA distributions, charitable gift annuities, charitable remainder unitrusts, or charitable remainder annuity trusts. We are deeply grateful for the generosity of our over 250 Heritage Club members whose planned gifts will allow the Y to serve our communities well into the future.
